At American University Washington College of Law, we are a community of accomplished faculty, engaged administrators, exceptional students, and extraordinary alumni advancing a 125-year long tradition of excellence in legal education, skills-based teaching, and relevant, high-impact scholarship. The spirit of our tradition lies in the hearts and minds of our community members, who are dedicated to the professional development and well-being of our students and alumni, and who strive to “Champion What Matters,” locally, nationally, and internationally.

Founded by pioneering women in the late 1800s, a time when few women had the opportunity to attend professional schools, we have continued to build upon this tradition of inclusive excellence, which now features top programs in clinical legal education, international law, trial advocacy, intellectual property, business law, law and government, and much more. Washington College of Law offers an exemplary professional education.

Our Tenley Campus is an unparalleled complement to the look and feel of 21st century legal and professional training and contributes to making Washington College of Law a vibrant intellectual hub. Our community of caring leaders stewards this stunning campus, utilizing their diverse experience and vision in service of the professional aspirations of our students. We take great pride in having exceptionally dedicated faculty whose experience, impact, and contributions touch every area of the law.

Our approximately 20,000 alumni have made extraordinary achievements in all areas of private law, business, and consulting, as well as government service, public interest, academia, and humanitarian work around the world.

As Interim Dean of American University Washington College of Law, I am committed to the advancement of our tradition of excellence. It is my pleasure to invite you to our campus so that you can experience for yourself our exceptional community.

Sincerely,

Heather Hughes
Interim Dean and Professor of Law

OUR LAW CAMPUS & COMMUNITY

Our law campus provides an unparalleled complement to the look and feel of 21st century legal and professional training. The state-of-the-art technology, LEED Gold certified environmental sustainability, and indoor and outdoor spaces for quiet study and reflection encourages community building and collaboration. Our location in Washington, DC maximizes access to the greatest legal minds the nation's capital has to offer, and our innovative programs continuously invite policymakers and top speakers to campus to address today's hottest topics. At American University Washington College of Law (AUWCL), you will hear from, meet, and network with the best!

AUWCL faculty teach and inspire the next generation of leaders who will have an impact on the world for decades to come. We are particularly proud that our student body includes people of various ethnicities, races, nationalities, sexual orientations and gender identities—who come together not simply to study law, but to learn from one another. Our students understand that their classmates and faculty, as well as AUWCL alumni, will be their colleagues in the legal profession. We are stronger, smarter, and more informed because of one another.

THE DC EXPERIENCE

We see the nation's capital as another classroom. Washington, DC is one of the most dynamic and diverse cities in the world—home to branches of government, the US Supreme Court, international organizations, major law firms, and multinational corporations. The city also boasts world-class restaurants, unrivaled museums and venues, and wonderfully diverse neighborhoods. You can find a place that fits your lifestyle that's an easy commute to our law campus.

BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

Among the many advantages of studying law in Washington, DC, is the opportunity to integrate practical experience with the theory of the classroom. Our Externship Program provides students the opportunity to receive academic credit for substantive legal work and reflect on their experience through seminars conducted by a broad cross-section of AUWCL full-time and adjunct faculty. Each year, more than 300 students gain practical, hands-on legal experience with government agencies, public interest organizations, courts, and law firms engaged in pro bono work.

The program hosts specialized fairs for upper-level students to connect them with employers focused on particular practice areas such as business, finance, health, public interest, non-profit, intellectual property, criminal law, immigration, and labor and employment law. The program's largest event is hosted spring semester for first- and second-year students, and is attended by more than 150 organizations recruiting externs for summer and academic year placements.

AUWCL students have recently externed at:

- American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) of New York
- Center for Reproductive Rights
- Children's Law Center
- District Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia
- Federal Public Defender
- Major League Soccer Players Association
- National Immigration Forum
- Superior Court of the District of Columbia
- US Department of Homeland Security (DHS) – US Coast Guard
- US Department of Justice (DOJ) Civil Division

THERE ARE ROUGHLY A MILLION OPPORTUNITIES IN THIS LAW SCHOOL TO CHANGE THE WORLD

American University Washington College of Law is a leading law school at the center of policy, business, and all things international. Here, students receive a legal education that prepares them to tackle a breadth of challenges in Washington, DC, throughout the country, and around the world. As a student, you will be supported by a law school community that is uniquely collaborative and challenged by a leading-edge curriculum as part of a law school experience that features unparalleled experiential learning opportunities.
